Leadership Messages

Kentucky PTA President Message

Hello PTA Friends and Family!

In this new era of education reform and parent/family engagement, your voice is more important than ever. Parents and family members are partners and advocates in their child's education. Learning does not end in the classroom. Children need help and support at home in order to succeed. National PTA's Parent Guides to Student Success provide specific ways that parents can help children master important skills.

It is our job as PTA leaders to make every parent feel welcomed. PTAs should work cooperatively with school administrators to find ways to develop Family/School Partnerships. For partnerships to work there must be mutual trust and respect, an ongoing exchange of information, and a welcoming school climate. I challenge each of you to make an extra effort to reach out to your parents. You may find your next fall festival chairperson, walk-a-thon chairperson, or board member.

We are thankful for all PTA leaders across the state and for your dedication to our students. Never under estimate the important role that you play in helping all children reach their potential. On behalf of the Kentucky PTA Board I wish you and your family a wonderful holiday season!

Unlike any other form of communication and self-expression, the arts allows children to use their creativity to share their thoughts, ideas and convey feelings and emotions in their own personal way. It's a universal language that is not only recreational, but educational as well. National PTA recognized the importance of the arts long ago as an essential part of the academic realm. Our well-known

PTA/PTSA leaders from across Kentucky, accepting awards on your association's behalf, and making connections with numerous vendors!

Reflections program has inspired millions of students in grades pre-K through 12 to reflect on a specific theme and create original artwork in dance choreography, film production, literature, music composition, photography and visual arts. The oldest and largest student recognition arts program in the nation, it was developed in 1969 by Mary Lou Anderson, to encourage students to explore their talents in an educational way. Kentucky Commissioner of Education Message

Terry Holliday

The Kentucky Department of Education has released the third year of results under the Unbridled Learning College/Career-Readiness for All accountability model, and while we still have much work to do, the data show we are moving in the right direction and that there is much reason to celebrate. The eyes of the nation have been focused on Kentucky since we became the first state to adopt new English/language arts and mathematics standards, as mandated by Senate Bill 1 (2009). While we saw a big drop in student performance at first, as expected due to the increased rigor of the standards, we are starting to see some significant progress, as predicted, in student performance evidenced by results on the Kentucky Performance Rating for Educational Progress (K-PREP). Kentucky students are proving to the rest of the nation that the standards are working and helping to better prepare them for college and careers. Read more...

Kentucky Core Academic Standards (KCAS) Challenge!

The Kentucky Department of Education is seeking specific input on the English/language arts and mathematics standards adopted in 2010. While stakeholders had an opportunity to provide feedback during the development and adoption process, this will give P-12 teachers, higher education, parents, students and others who are interested the chance to perfect the standards based on their experience over the past 4-5 years. This is NOT a referendum on the standards. ONLY comments tied to a specific standard will be considered. The challenge will remain open until April 30, 2015 to give those who are interested ample opportunity to provide thoughtful response. Once the challenge ends, the feedback provided will be posted online. Comments provided about specific standards will be evaluated by a team of Kentucky educators, from all levels specializing in the specific content areas. The team will then make recommendations on any changes to the Kentucky Board of Education for its consideration, most likely in fall of 2015. If you are not familiar with the standards, we have provided documents for English / Language Arts and Math explaining how the standards in each subject are organized to help you get started. Take the challenge now, click here to get started.

The first ever Cheetah Craft Fair and Burgoo cook-off was a great success! The team was determined to host two simultaneous fundraisers regardless of the challenges. The night before the event most every staff member and the PTA board showed up with can openers to open hundreds of canned goods for the burgoo and then set up the craft fair. The next morning, over 35 volunteers arrived bright and early to start cooking burgoo. Hundreds of people flooded the event and stood in line for burgoo. The community support was amazing and enabled the PTA to make a profit the first year hosting the two events.

Programs

Male Involvement

The National PTA 2nd Annual Male Engagement Conference was held earlier this year in Atlanta, GA. The conference was sponsored by four of the nation's finest Male Engagement organizations including National PTA MORE (Men Organized to Raise Engagement), WATCH D.O.G.S. (Dads of Great Students), Strong Fathers, Strong Families, and All Pro Dads. Attendees representing PTA/PTSA's from around the nation came together to collaborate and learn new ways to reach out to the male role models of our children. The Kentucky PTA was represented by nine delegates from local units, Kentucky PTA and Title 1 representatives.

All organizations offered different styles of programming to increase male involvement in schools and more importantly, children's lives. Research has shown that with increased male role model involvement, there is increased health, welfare and self-esteem of children. There is also an improvement in the student's grades and an increase in national and state assessment scores.

Working together as parents to raise children at home is very important and this initiative only helps strengthen efforts to be "ONE VOICE" for every child. The commitment of National PTA and Kentucky PTA to male involvement is illustrated by the increase in male role models to both the national Board of Directors (now 48% Male) and Kentucky's Board of Directors (now 22% from 7%).

The Kentucky PTA looks forward to working with all local and district units to help develop Male Engagement initiatives. Have questions? Contact J.C. Pendleton, Male Involvement Committee Chair, at kypta.jcpendleton@gmail.com.

Advocacy

Child Advocacy Day at the Capitol

Children's Advocacy Day at the Capitol began in 2004 as an effort to unite advocates from across the state to raise their voices on behalf of children's safety, health, education and economic well-being. Hundreds of advocates from over 50 counties now gather at the Capitol in Frankfort every year to ask legislators to invest in kids. The 11th Annual Children's Advocacy Day is scheduled for Thursday, February 5, 2015. In 2014 more than 600 advocates attended the event in Frankfort! Elected officials, social workers, parents, teachers, judges, doctors, public health experts, therapists, members of the military, seniors, and kids came together to rally on children's issues from the Blueprint for Kentucky's Children agenda.

Join us for the 11th Annual Children's Advocacy Day on Thursday, February 5, 2015! Registration begins at 9:00 AM, followed by a rally at 10:00 AM, Blueprint Agenda information sessions, and a KIDS COUNT ceremony. Just so we have an idea of how many people to expect, please RSVP for CAD here. (We would love for your group to join us! One person can RSVP for the entire group with an estimate of how many will attend.) And please plan to meet with your legislators to discuss how you want them to support Kentucky children. Steps to prepare to meet with legislators:

- Check out the Blueprint for Kentucky's Children webpage to learn more about the issues facing Kentucky's children during the 2015 legislative session.
- Make an appointment to visit with your legislators. Please do not wait until the day you arrive to try to get an appointment. You may want to become familiar with your legislator's picture so you can pick them out. Visit Project Vote Smart or the Legislative Research Commission website to learn who represents you. Call 502-564-8100 to schedule an appointment.

Learn more about the day by downloading an electronic copy of the last year's booklet: 10th Annual Children's Advocacy Day Booklet.

Grassroots Advocacy Event Hosted by the 15th District

Learn how to be an advocate for children at the grassroots training on February 10. All PTA districts are invited. Download the registration form here.

Financial
