

Advocacy and Legislation

“Advocacy is the art of focused persuasion to bring positive change at the local, state and national levels.” (Anonymous)

Why Legislation? Why Advocacy?

Today, more young people are “at risk” than ever before. Far too many grow up in poverty, spend some time in a single parent home, and lack health insurance during at least part of the year. Our children and youth are exposed to an increasingly violent world and to a peer culture that does not always value learning or understand that educational achievement is a key factor in success. Our children did not make these conditions, and few understand how to get their voices heard by those with the power to solve these problems—the lawmakers. They need “advocates” to speak for them.

“To secure adequate laws for the protection of children and youth” is the third Purpose of the PTA and is the primary guide for the legislative activity of PTAs and PTSAs. Since decisions made by legislative bodies—the U. S. Congress, the Kentucky General Assembly, county and city governments and schools’ boards—affect the health, safety, welfare and education of children and youth, and their families, it is imperative that PTAs and PTSAs become involved in the legislative process.

Wherever the decision-making is done - whether it is city or county government, school boards, legislature or various authorities and agencies - PTA needs to be there!

Tens of thousands of PTA members in Kentucky are working daily to improve the quality of life for young people. We must connect parents and communities to the issues that impact children’s lives.

While the voice of one parent acting alone can be ignored, the voice of thousands working together will get attention.

What is Advocacy?

Advocacy can be broken down into basic parts: the advocate, the issue, the act and the decision maker.

- Anyone who speaks for another is an advocate. PTA members are advocates for children and their parents.
- PTA members advocate on a wide variety of child-related issues: education, health, nutrition, safety, juvenile protection, welfare reform, parent and family life, and drug abuse prevention to name a few.
- The act of advocacy is simply communicating about the issue by speaking, writing, phoning, faxing or e-mailing. The purpose of the communication can be to inform, educate, persuade or increase the level of awareness about the issue.
- The decision-maker is any individual or body that has the power to address the issue or solve the problem. Decision-makers include elected and appointed officials, legislative bodies, school boards, and judges.

Every PTA member can be an effective advocate. The process is always the same; identify, research and understand the issue; identify, research and understand the decision-maker; and develop and communicate the message. The process is not always easy, and dedication and perseverance are usually required. Sometimes success is achieved quickly, sometimes slowly.

Characteristics of Leadership for Advocacy

• Keep Informed About the Issues

On National PTA’s web site (www.pta.org) look under the Advocacy tab for advocacy and other legislative information. Also, watch for legislative information published in Kentucky PTA’s Our Children...Our Future newsletter. For information on local education issues, attend local school board meetings and access information from your school district’s website. For state updates, check the Kentucky Department of Education website education.ky.gov. Attend the Kentucky PTA advocacy training.

- Choose Issues Important to Your Membership

Stay aware of what motivates your members and show how the PTA's issues reflect their concerns. Educate your members by reporting on local, state and national issues at PTA meetings. Provide members with the names and contact information of their legislators and school board members.

- Build the Support of Members for Your Cause

Create a sense of ownership and participation among parents by making sure everyone understands your goal and how the individual activities will build towards achieving the goal. Encourage others to help shape the advocacy agenda, so that each member feels responsible for the actions and decisions of the group.

- Learn to Work Together

Transform a group of individuals into a PTA unit whose members work efficiently and share a sense of purpose and accomplishment.

- Recruit New Members

Publicize your meetings and try to greet new people. Call them after their first meeting to ask for their reactions and suggest a committee for them to join.

- Take Risks

Be willing to risk failure to move closer to solving the problems you want to address.

- Retain Your Commitment to Change

Even when making the change requires more effort than you had anticipated. Never lose sight of your goals, even as you continually shift strategies to achieve them.

History of PTA Advocacy

Over 100 years ago, the National PTA foundation was built on the mission of affecting positive policy change on children's issues. PTA advocates for the safety, health and welfare of ALL children; PTA has been historically instrumental in securing polio vaccinations, hot lunches in schools and access to public education for all children. Today, PTA strives to impact legislation and policy involving education, health care and safety issues, among others.

People who were concerned about children, particularly child labor, education and their health and safety, founded the PTA in the 1890s. The first convocation of the National Congress of Mothers in February 1897 resulted in:

- Resolution to establish U.S. Public Health Service
- Request implementation of parent-teacher conferences
- Preparation of parenting information

National PTA efforts have led to positive changes in child labor laws, public health services, federal education laws, parent involvement policies, school lunch programs, juvenile justice protections, and mandatory immunizations.

We cannot expect to completely wipe out hunger, racism, poverty, violence and illiteracy. But we can support nutrition programs, school reform, adequate funding for public education, promote the teaching of tolerance, and urge the passage of new safety and health programs. We can bring about change by creating incremental solutions to big problems.

Kentucky PTA Advocacy Program

Kentucky PTA's advocacy program supports local PTA efforts to engage in advocacy at all levels of decision-making. A key to success is finding a local PTA advocacy/legislative chairperson to coordinate your unit's advocacy efforts. The Kentucky PTA legislative team develops legislative priorities that are used in advocacy efforts to secure adequate laws for the protection, welfare and education of children and youth. Your legislative chair will also want to represent your unit at our annual legislative advocacy training, where we offer training and make decisions about priorities for the next state legislative session. For more information about recruiting an advocacy/legislative chair, contact your state legislative chair. Contact information can be found on our website kypta.org and click on Advocacy.

Your First Steps as Legislative Chair

Communication and team building are the keys to successful advocacy. We also recommend that you build a team of advocates to maximize your effectiveness and spread the workload.

Tips to begin your year:

1. Make sure your membership chair has reported your name to the Kentucky PTA office as legislative chair.
2. Sign up with the Kentucky PTA office for Action Alert listserv. The Legislative Action Alerts is a one-way electronic communication alerting you to fast-breaking happenings in Frankfort and Washington DC and requesting you to call, email, or write a letter to your legislators on specific issues that relate to the Kentucky PTA Legislative Platform. They are structures with background, requested action and a brief message for you to use as a template.
3. Make sure that your PTA has advocacy and/or legislative reports on each board and general meeting agenda. Prepare for the meeting by checking the Kentucky PTA website, copying articles of interest from the newspaper, announcing upcoming town hall meetings, etc.

4. Ask for space in your PTA newsletter for an advocacy column. If you are not a writer, look on the Kentucky PTA website for ideas or contact the Kentucky PTA Legislative Chair.
5. Make sure your PTA has a budget for advocacy/legislation. It should include funds for copying, postage, Legislative Assembly, and other expenses.
6. Contact your Kentucky PTA Legislative Chair for information about upcoming orientation and training meetings.
7. Answer the following questions. If you don't know the answer that's okay, but learning the answers will help you to make the connections needed for successful advocacy.
  - Do you know the name of your school district's superintendent and whether or not he/she holds public forums or roundtables? (See your school district calendar or website or call your district office.)
  - Can you name at least one person on the school board? When are your school board meetings? (Again, go to your school district website or call the district office.)
  - Do you know who represents you in the Kentucky Senate and Kentucky House of Representatives?
  - Do you know who represents you in Washington DC as your congressman and senator?
  - Can you name an elected official who serves on the Senate or House Education Committees?
  - Who is the Kentucky Commissioner of Education? When is the next meeting of the Kentucky Board of Education?

Becoming a Successful Advocate for Children

The foundation of the PTA is advocacy. Advocacy means to speak up; to plead a cause; to make a case for another. You are an advocate: When you speak up for your child to his/her teacher; when you speak up for changes in curriculum at your school; when you speak up for a crosswalk to make it safer for children to cross the street; and when you speak up to reform the children's welfare system.

Our Vision is:

“Making every child’s potential a reality.”

Our Mission is to be:

- A powerful voice for all children;
- A relevant resource for families and communities; and
- A strong advocate for the education and well-being of every child.

In Kentucky, the PTA has been a leader in supporting legislation at all governmental levels to build a better world for children. As effective advocates for children, we might support local efforts to improve school nutrition, state efforts to improve education funding and national efforts to increase access to healthcare. We often assist in change efforts by helping to create incremental solutions to big problems.

Turning Members into Advocacy Volunteers

It is time to start building your network of volunteers to help with the effort of persuasion.

The first step to building a volunteer network is to clearly communicate the local, state, and national PTA goals and tell members at each meeting how they can participate in the advocacy process. Bring the issues and goals to the local level by telling members how they affect your community's schools and children. Explain to them that they are already engaging in advocacy efforts when they contact their child's teacher or principal. You can also make it easy for members to find information on local, state, and national PTA advocacy efforts. If you have not already done so, build an email address book to disseminate important information quickly and efficiently.

Provide a Variety of Ways for Members to be Advocates.

Not all PTA members will be able to devote the same level of time or resources. By offering them a variety of duties, they can pick which task fits their individual situation and time constraints. For example, if targeting the school board with a letter-writing campaign is one of your goals, make it easy for all members to do this at the next meeting by providing a sample letter, stationery and envelopes, and postage.

Keep your advocacy volunteer network involved in important issues by providing them with the latest information. An effort should be made to create and maintain an up-to-date website with links to Kentucky PTA and National PTA, regularly delivering a printed newsletter, and sending an email newsletter. Your goal is to provide your volunteers with the tools they need to successfully complete their task.

In a volunteer association like Kentucky PTA, the words “thank you” take on an even more powerful meaning. Handwrite a note and print a certificate of appreciation to let volunteers know they make a difference and their efforts are appreciated.

Putting it All Together

A written plan will help you focus your advocacy activities. You should identify PTA goals, organizational capacity, target audiences, potential allies, opposition, and the activities to be pursued. Some steps in developing a strategy chart or advocacy plan:

- Determine the issue
- Build a volunteer network
- Organize around goals
- Identify targets and tactics
- Build a coalition and maximize resources
- Develop a message that “resonates”
- Communicate to decision makers.
- Evaluate and celebrate your efforts!

PTA Do’s and Don’ts

The PTA is non-partisan and, as such, shall have no connection with any political party or candidate for office. This prohibition is imposed on all non-profit association by federal law. You must work with people from all political parties. Anyone can be allies on specific issues important to you.

As PTA’s/PTSA’s WE MAY:

- Take positions on ISSUES related to education and children’s advocacy.
- Arrange and support activities that serve to INFORM members about issues.
- Promote PARTICIPATION in civic activities by registering voters and encouraging turnout.
- Arrange, support, sponsor and advertise public information FORUMS.
- EDUCATE members on various issues that impact our children.
- SHARE the voting records of elected officials.

As PTA’s/PTSA’s WE MAY NOT:

- Participate in, or intervene in, directly or indirectly, any political campaign on behalf of any CANDIDATE for public office.
- Support, oppose or endorse, in any way, any CANDIDATE who is running for a public office, including school board.

Please REMEMBER:

Any PTA member who chooses to support or oppose a CANDIDATE or PARTY must express that support or opposition apart from any affiliation with PTA.

Communicating with Your Legislators

The most important thing that PTA advocates can do to support our statewide advocating efforts is to build strong relationships with local legislators. Why? Legislators need to know that their local constituents care about the issues that PTA is supporting. They want to hear from you about how the issues we are advocating for impact you personally.

Our goal: Start by forming your PTA team and visiting the legislators either individually or as a group when your legislators are at home in between legislative sessions. They will often want to meet you in a coffee shop, as most do not have offices outside of Frankfort. Our Federal Legislators have state offices.

Establishing the Relationship: Do some research on the Kentucky LRC website (<http://www.lrc.ky.gov/>) to learn about your legislator's interests. Each legislator has a home page with background information. You can also find out the committees they have served on, bills they have sponsored and their voting records. Look for areas of common interest. Consider inviting them to speak/answer questions at a unit or district event. Ask to be on their social media lists so that you will receive their updates. Share the current PTA platform and let them know that you will follow up with them about specific bills during the legislative session.

Report Your Progress: Once you have met with your legislators, call or email the Kentucky PTA Legislative Chair to let them know who is on your legislative team. We need to know who you are, so that we know who to call when we need assistance. We also encourage you to call or email us for support in your efforts. Together, we can make a big difference for kids!!

Additional Tips to Help Maximize Your Effectiveness

- Recognize that legislators are not experts - They cannot possibly keep completely informed about all the issues. They need education, supporting information, and referrals. Avoid using jargon, use specific examples, be factual, and think of the constituent (voter) impact.
- Return address – Put your return address on the letter, not just the envelope. Envelopes are often thrown away before a letter is answered. Also, always put your home address in any email. Legislators want to know if you are one of their constituents.
- Identify yourself – If you are writing on your own behalf or as legislative chair of an association, say so.
- Identify your subject – State the name of the legislation or the topic about which you are writing in the first paragraph. Include the bill number or some way they can identify which bill you are writing about.
- State your position – Explain how a bill would affect you, your family, your school, or even your state or community.
- Be reasonable and honest – Don't ask for the impossible and don't intentionally misinform a legislator. Don't threaten your legislator. Just be firm, confident, positive, and courteous. Even if they do not agree with you on this point, there may be another point in the future on which you will both agree.
- Get to know the staff – The staff in a legislator's office can be very powerful. Remember that they control the legislator's schedule, the information received, and influence the legislator's decisions.
- Keep it short – Write your letter or email about one issue. If you cannot express your position in one paragraph, you may not be clear about your position.
- Ask for a reply – Indicate to your legislator that you would appreciate a reply containing his position on the issue. As a constituent, you have the right to know your representative's views.
- Follow up – If your legislator's vote on the bill pleases you, express your thanks. Everybody appreciates a complimentary letter. By the same token, you should express your dissatisfaction with votes that do not support your position.

Telephone Tips – Email Tips

- Be prepared – It would be helpful to jot down a few quick notes before calling, to make sure you get your entire point across quickly.
- Speak with the staff – It is rare that you will speak directly to the legislator. Since the staff often has the expertise that the legislator does not, and the legislator depends on the staff for information, speak with them.
- Don't bully – Yelling, screaming, and threatening are the surest ways to not be heard or helped. Stay as calm and rational as possible.
- Be timely and start early – To increase the impact of your call, contact the legislator as soon as you can. The earlier in the process that they hear your opinion, the more impact you will have.
- Check in – From time to time, it's good to see how an issue is progressing. This also provides a good opportunity to build a relationship with the staff and the legislator.
- Say thank you – An honest “thanks” for their assistance or interest in your issue is always the right thing to do. “Thank you” makes people feel appreciated.

Meeting Tips

- Telephone or email for an appointment – Call your legislator's office and ask for the appointments assistant to arrange a meeting with your legislator or the staff member who follows your issues.
- Identify yourself – Make sure that they know whom you represent. Are you a constituent? Are you a board member in an association? Remember all politics are local. Let them know how the issues affect the folks back home.
- Be prepared – Make sure that you know the key points you want to get across. Meetings are often interrupted, and someone may change the subject off what you want to say. Make sure you are ready to give them your three or four most important points.
- Be understanding and discuss both sides of an issue – The most effective advocates – those who gain and keep the ear of legislators – are sources of information as well as opinion. You will gain credibility if you can educate in one breath and persuade in the next.
- Present accurate facts and good talking points. If an issue goes against you, don't rush to blame the Legislature for “failing” to do what you wanted. The failure may be yours. Make certain first that you did a good job in presenting your case.
- Be realistic – Remember that most legislation is the result of compromise. It always has been so and it always will be so in a democracy. Don't expect that everything will go your way, and don't be too critical when it doesn't.
- Maintain contacts – If legislators vote with you, thank them for their support. If they vote against you, thank them for considering your views. Then focus on winning another day, another way. Look for angles and new developments that could change their minds.
- Remember to thank him/her for their time – After the meeting, write a thank you letter to each person you met with. Everyone likes to feel appreciated. This is especially important if you and your legislators have different opinions. Thanking them for their time, and mentioning the highlights of your meeting will build the credibility and relationship you may need in the future.

Winning Without Wounding

By Linda Paulson in The Executive Persuader

- Arguing versus verbal aggression: Use the intelligent point of view. Discuss facts instead of bullying or attacking your opponent.
- Hold back your impulses: Do not be spontaneous, but take your time and think through your response. Review the facts at hand, and do further research if necessary.
- Respect the opposition: Know their positions on the issue and why they believe them. Anticipate the opposite point of view and prepare for it by thinking of what their possible objections might be. Sell the benefits from their point of view. Remember that other people have their own way of thinking.
- Tailor your point to be heard: Remember that first impressions count most. Grab their attention in the first few seconds of any talk.
- Separate the personal issues from the point at hand: Do not attack anyone's person or character. Similarly, do not judge people based on personal feelings. Personal enemies may agree with your logic and friends may hold opposite views. Do what is best for the PTA.
- Dissent is healthy: You do not want everyone to be so intimidated that they refuse to bring up their own objections. When people do not voice their positions, the problems fester.
- Record your voice: Your vocal tone and manner are critical. Listen to yourself and see where you need to soften your voice so as not to appear hostile. Practice composure by using a low, reasonable, calm voice.
- Focus on goals: Talk in terms of what is accomplished, not the people behind them.
- Deal head-on with attackers: Do not let yellers and screamers have the advantage. When under attack, just say, "I disagree," and go on.
- Count to ten; take a deep breath; take a break: Pause to listen to your breath and make sure you are controlling a slow, rhythmic breathing pace. This will help you relax under pressure.
- Ignore cutting, sarcastic remarks: Resist the urge to cut back; it will only lead to an unproductive path. Avoiding attacking makes you the more mature, in-control party.
- Use Humor: Humor can lessen the tension.
- Leave the other side with dignity intact: Plan this out. You want to help the opposition save face so they do not continue to oppose you out of sheer desperation.
- Don't push your victory: Do not gloat. After winning do not brag. It is still possible to lose. Have you never heard the phrase, "grasping defeat out of the jaws of victory"?

Legislative Chair Timeline

Suggested Legislative Chair Timeline

Following are many different activities performed by legislative chairs. This timeline is set up as a guideline of activities you could also be involved in. Legislation chairs can use this resource as a starting point for their work. Each PTA can adjust its advocacy work to fit the needs and resources of its membership.

July

1. Secure unit's Legislative Chair Notebook
2. Complete transition with outgoing/incoming officers to ensure consistency for your PTA.
3. Make sure you are registered with the Kentucky PTA Office as the Legislative Chair.
4. Schedule a meeting with each of your local legislators while they are out of session and at home. This is a great time to start forming a relationship. Tell them what issues you are interested in and ask them what they are working on. (July through August.)
5. Attend your Kentucky PTA Convention in July.

August

1. Be on the agenda for board and general meetings.
2. Get the newsletter schedule and prepare an article for each issue.
3. Obtain advocacy section of Leaders Notebook from your PTA president.
4. Seek volunteers who would be willing to contact their legislators during the session as well as receiving information about bills and alerts. Set up an e-group with these volunteers.
5. Create list of advocates. These are people who volunteer to receive updates via email and call or write to their legislators. Provide Kentucky Legislative Chair with a copy of your list of volunteers including names and email addresses.
6. Consider holding a candidates' forum in October. Look at the League of Women Voters website at lwvwa.org where you'll find "Guidelines for Effective Forums" and other suggestions. The League likes to provide moderators for candidate forums, adding a recognized independent voice to your forum.

September

1. Encourage your members to register to vote and have forms available at every meeting.
2. Verify that your PTA has a line item for Legislative Session.
3. Plan to attend meetings of the General Assembly, local government, and school district meetings.
4. Review newsletter content guidelines regarding legislative issues. PTA Political Campaign Activity Restrictions and Guidelines are available on the PTA website. www.pta.org/electionguides
5. Get an article ready for the newsletter. In it give your name and email address and request members to sign up to help contact legislators in the upcoming Legislative Session.
6. Set up a voter and absentee registration table at school events such as curriculum nights, open house and socials. Also, provide forms to school offices. Encourage high school students who are 18 to register to vote.
7. Survey local members and parents on legislative issue priorities for Legislative Session. Issue surveys can be sent out by newsletter.
8. Continue to seek volunteers to develop your email list.
9. If you are at the secondary level, encourage students to attend meetings of the General Assembly.
10. Encourage your members to look at the Kentucky PTA website www.kypta.org, click on Advocacy and then browse.

October

1. Write a newsletter article and update notebook.
2. Remind people to vote in the General Election, the first Tuesday of November.
3. Educate yourself on the issues.
4. Continue to encourage members to register to vote.
5. Hold a candidates' forum.

November

1. Attend Kentucky PTA Advocacy Training in Frankfort, Kentucky.
2. Encourage people to vote in the General Election.
3. Share Legislative Assembly results with your members, both at meetings and in your newsletter article.
4. Write newsletter article and update notebook.
5. Identify newly elected officials in your attendance area and share that information with your members by creating a list of those legislators and local elected officials.
6. Introduce yourself as the local Legislative Chair to your legislators and ask how he/she would like to be contacted – email, snail mail, or phone?
7. Begin to look at your local paper for information about issues to be addressed in January during Legislative Session. Save articles to share with your members.

December

1. Write newsletter article and update notebook. Again, include elected officials contact information. Give the Legislative Hotline phone number to use during the Legislative Session. Give suggestions on how to communicate with legislators making sure to include name & address in the email, so that legislators know they are their constituents.
2. Update your list of members that will call or write to their legislators.
3. Watch newspapers for articles related to PTA issues.
4. At the secondary level, prepare an article and send to the student newspaper.
5. Make sure you and your team are signed up for the Legislative listserv.

January

1. Legislative Session begins.
2. Look for Kentucky PTA Action Alerts. Share these alerts at your board and general meetings.
3. Newsletter article should include information about Children's Advocacy Day, in January or February, at the Capital. Encourage members to attend.
4. Look for articles in the paper about the session.
5. Consider sending information about legislative issues to members.
6. Write a newsletter article giving your members the information needed to contact their legislators.

February

1. Check email for specific action alerts from PTA legislative resources. Forward any information you receive to your PTA contacts for action or information.
2. Be sure to get on the agenda for your monthly meetings.
3. Write newsletter article and update notebook.

March

1. Continue to be on the agenda for monthly meetings to encourage members to write, email and call their Legislators regarding key bills.
2. Share the happenings in Frankfort with PTA members.
3. Write newsletter article and update notebook.
4. Encourage members to contact legislators regarding key bills.
5. Check the paper for information about issues being addressed in Frankfort.

April

1. Encourage members to write, email and call their legislators regarding key bills.
2. Register to attend Kentucky PTA Leadership/ Convention in July and attend legislative related classes.
3. Write newsletter article and update notebook.
4. Be sure your PTA's budget has a separate legislative expenses line item for Kentucky PTA Advocacy Training in November, Kentucky PTA Children's Advocacy Day at the Capitol in January or February, postage and mailings, materials, etc.
5. Work closely with your legislators to make sure each understands PTA positions on issues.
6. Begin to talk with your members about issues they feel need to be addressed next year during the Legislative Session. Consider submitting an issue on behalf of your PTA for the next General Assembly process.

May & June

1. Write newsletter article.
2. Update notebook, file reports, and return materials to unit president or new Legislative Chair.
3. Continue working with legislators on issues.
4. Contact the Governor's office regarding specific bills and budget concerns.
5. Brainstorm ideas for issue submission and research issues that your members suggest (in May).
6. Issue development and adoption-record vote in general meeting minutes.
7. Encourage members with other issues to submit them to the Kentucky PTA Legislative Chair, listing the individual as sponsor (in May).

Advocacy Action Plans

“Advocacy is the art of focused persuasion to bring positive change at the local, state and national levels.” (Anonymous)

The following action items will help you set the stage for effective advocacy. You don't need to do everything, but you should consider them as you develop your action plans.

- Determine your issues. Know the pros and cons of your issues and what information is available, forthcoming or lacking. Sources for information could include: online articles, websites, studies, newspapers, community meetings, action alert emails, etc.
- Build a volunteer network. Change occurs because of grassroots pressure. Determine where you are likely to get support and what you will need to bring these supporters on board.
- Organize around goals. Break issues into short-term sustainable goals. They should be action oriented, clearly defined, and focused on what can be accomplished.
- Identify targets and tactics. Describe goals and objectives for each activity you plan to undertake, the audience it is intended to influence, and the range of potential outcomes.
- Build coalitions – maximize resources. A coalition is a group of people combined on a temporary basis to work towards a common goal. Coalitions usually involve bringing together difference organizations to work for a common goal to maximize support and resources.
- Develop a message that resonates. Message is the disciplined delivery of PTA core beliefs that inform the public how the issues affect their families and communities.
- Use the media. Develop relationships with media by becoming a credible source of information, staffing newsworthy events, releasing information, and always telling the truth.
- Communicate with decision makers. Decision makers are the people who will ultimately decide your issue. They could be the principal, school board, county agency, or the Legislature. Frequent and persuasive contacts with decision makers improve your chances for success.
- Use Kentucky PTA and National PTA resources. There is a wealth of information your State and National PTA have available for your use.
- Put it all together. Create a written plan in which you identify PTA goals, organizational capacity, target audiences, potential allies, opposition, and the activities to be pursued.
- Get out there and just do it! everychild. onevoice.® PTA.

Building a Grassroots Campaign

Not every issue needs a grassroots campaign. But as the number of people that an issue affects grows, the number of people needed to enact change also increases. It helps to remember that every good organizing effort starts automatically with two goals:

- Win the Victory
- Build the Movement

One of the key steps in building a campaign is to establish a Core Group of about six committed activists drawn from the key groups you hop to work with. These key groups will have information and access to people you need to work with. People respond more readily to those they regard as their peers. This peer-to-peer notion is very simple: if you want to recruit doctors, you win over one doctor and ask that person to recruit other doctors.

The Core Group will determine your

- Priority Issues
- Strategy
- Goals
- Timetable

The Core Group is instrumental in developing your volunteer network because they each have access to an expanded base of people that you do not.

Researching the Issue

Shaping an issue requires continually staying on top of the facts. Research includes gathering data from many sources and could include providing data to decision makers.

History

- What is the importance of the issue to the PTA?
- Does it fit within the organization's mission and goals?
- How will it affect the education and wellbeing of children?
- Will it result in concrete and quantifiable improvements?

Climate for Change

- Does the issue have clarity, and will it appeal to a broad range of people and their everyday concerns?
- Will it bring your members together and not alienate outside individuals and organizations?
- Will promoting your issue require a lot of resources, both people and money, to have an impact in persuading the decision makers?
- Will the issue strengthen your organization by attracting new members or energizing current members to increase their support of causes that benefit children?

Opposition

- Is there organized resistance to your cause?
- What is the size of the resistance's organization and bankroll?
- Do you think the resistance can attract media attention, such as public figures or celebrities for spokespeople?
- How determined is the resistance to prevail on this issue?
- How do the arguments of the resistance differ from your organization's position?
- Do these arguments carry weight with the community or voters?

Developing a Message That Resonates

Message development and disciplined delivery is key to winning over decision makers. An effective message is targeted at the people who are undecided about the issue, and should be crafted in a way that persuades members of the community to join with your organization. The message should also persuade members to become activists for children, persuade the media to give weight to PTA positions, persuade members of the community to demand change, remind everyone of the importance of parent involvement in decision making, persuade voters to go to the polls and persuade decision makers to enact policies or vote on initiatives that are in line with your organization's principles.

Put your research information under the category headings of:

- What PTA says
- What opposition says
- What PTA says about opposition's position
- What opposition says about PTA's position

This will allow you to better craft your message and responses. Once the message has been crafted, it is vital you keep the message consistent in all communication. To be heard, the message must be kept simple and repeated. Remember, your members will be tired of the message long before it begins to even sink in with decision makers and the public.

Recruiting Other Grassroots Advocates

Everyone in your Core Group should be looking for other like-minded people that will volunteer their time and talents. You probably interact with an amazing number of people through different groups you belong to. In turn, they belong to other groups. These include:

- Service clubs
- Exercise groups
- Faith based groups
- Parents/preschool groups
- Business & professional organizations
- Sports organizations
- Homeowners neighborhood associations
- Social organizations

The more people you empower, the more you build the movement and the more powerful an impact your group can have.

With a few exceptions, most of those people you recruit don't need to be experts in the legislative process or laws. Your volunteers need just a few simple things from you:

- A reason to know it's worth their time and effort.
- The confidence that THEY can do this.
- Easy (and enjoyable) ways to fit it into their busy lives – you will be constantly using your Core Group to break things down into manageable tasks and decide who will do what.

Putting it All Together

The final step is to create a written plan in which you identify PTA goals, organizational capacity, target audiences, potential allies, opposition, and the activities to be pursued.

Partial List of Tactics You Could Use

Following is a partial list of tactics that could be used in your campaign. Be creative in coming up with tactics that best meet your needs, talents, budget and resources.

- Radio, newspaper, TV ads
- Website with information and response
- Testify at hearings
- Fact sheets
- Newsletters
- Sponsor, then publish studies
- Petition drives
- Get out the vote campaign
- Voter registration program
- Mail information to voters
- Survey likely voters
- Face-to-face meetings with policy makers
- Public forums
- Candidate forums/debates
- Yard signs
- Billboards
- Phone calls to likely voters
- Presentations to interested groups
- Phone call or email campaign to policy makers
- Social Media information/alerts to supporters
- Display at local malls
- Car signs/bumper stickers
- Lapel pins
- T-shirts or hats
- Letters to the editor, Op-Ed pieces
- Newspaper/radio/TV interviews
- Calls to radio talk shows
- Doorbelling
- Letters to relatives by supporters
- Ask questions at legislator meetings

Kentucky PTA Legislative Platform

---

New revised Legislative Platform will be voted on at the Convention in July. Please check in August for update on our website.

KENTUCKY PTA LEGISLATIVE AGENDA FOR 2018

CHARTER SCHOOLS:

1. In order to prevent any service reductions and maintain equity for all students, public charter schools must not divert funding from existing non-charter public schools.
2. Charter Schools must ensure access for all children, be free of tuition and be reflective of district population.
3. Charter schools must be subject to the same assessment, accountability standards, and certification as non-charter public schools, in order to ensure high quality education for all children.
4. Charter schools must adhere to the service standards for students with special needs (IEP, 504 plans), including which entity is to be the local education agency (LEA) responsible for providing these services and how they are to be funded.
5. Charter schools must meaningfully engage parents in transparent authorizing, review, and any decision-making processes, including the involvement of at least two parents on all levels of charter boards.

FUNDING:

1. Maintain or increase funding for adequate K-12 public school education.
2. Oppose any voucher or tax credits.
3. Support tax reform to increase public school funding.

SCHOOL BASED DECISION-MAKING COUNCILS (SBDM):

1. Oppose any reduction in authority and/or dismantling of school based decision-making councils (SBDM) in schools, which includes parent engagement.

Call for Resolutions

What is a resolution?

A resolution is a motion which because of its importance, length or complexity, is present in writing in a formal format.

Who may submit resolutions?

All local PTAs and PTSAs, district PTAs and the state PTA board may submit resolutions to the Kentucky PTA.

What does a resolution look like?

Resolutions come in two parts, the “whereas” part and the “resolved” part. The “whereas” sections describe the problem and tell why something must be done.

The “resolved” sections state the solution, what is to be done to solve the problem. It sounds complicated, but it isn’t.

Think of the “whereas” part as the “because” part.

Think of the “resolved” part as the “action” part. For example, take this resolution of a local PTA to take an issue to the school board:

Whereas, There are many students from our school, ABC Elementary, who must cross the street to walk home, and*

Whereas, There is no cross walk on the street in front of the school; therefore be it.*

Resolved, That the ABC PTA take a petition to the school Board and the county fiscal court asking for a crosswalk, and*

Resolved, That the ABC PTA encourage all of its members to write letters to the school board and county fiscal court in support of this resolution.*

Now change the words “resolved” to “because” the words “therefore be it” to “we will take the following”, and the words “resolved” to “action:”

Because, There are many students from our school, ABC Elementary, who must cross the street to walk home, and*

Because, There is no cross walk on the street in front of the school; we will take the following*

Action, That the ABC PTA take a petition to the school board and the county fiscal court asking for a crosswalk, and*

Action, That the ABC PTA encourage all of its members to write letters to the school board and county fiscal court in support of this resolution.*

If you want, you can write your resolution this way, then substitute the correct terminology when the resolution is finished.

How do we get started?

First, read through the Kentucky PTA legislative platform and resolutions and National PTA Quick-Reference Guides. If there are other resolutions or position statements that correspond with the action you want taken, then your job is easy. Prepare a resolution to reaffirm an earlier resolutions(s) or position statement(s). This was done in 1998 with the violence in schools resolutions. If there is not already a resolution about your issue, then you will need to write one.

Study the section in the National PTA Quick-Reference Guides on resolutions. This will give you helpful information on writing your resolution. Then contact the Kentucky PTA State office, P.O. Box 654, Frankfort, KY 40602-0654; 502-226-6607; kentuckypta@bellsouth.net for assistance. Now it is time to begin writing.

Begin at the end, with the “resolved”-action-section. What do you want done to solve the problem? Let’s say you want counselors in all elementary schools, fully funded by the state. You want the state PTA to take this issue to the next state legislative session. You also want the state PTA to contact other state education organizations, such as the school counselors’ organization, the teachers’ organization and the elementary principals’ organization to encourage their support. That is three action items or resolved clauses.

Next prepare the “because” or “whereas” clauses, the rationale.

These are the reasons that you want counselors in every elementary school. You can probably think of a hundred reasons, but don’t put them all in the resolution. Limit your whereas or because clauses to a few of the most compelling reasons, the ones most likely to convince others to vote for your resolution.

Then gather your materials in support of the “whereas” clauses. Remember, every statement, phrase and word must be substantiated. See the National PTA Quick-Reference Guides for more specific information.

Now it is time to begin the approval process.

1. Take your resolution to your PTA for a vote. It must be approved by your PTA before it is submitted.
2. If it is approved by your PTA, fill out the Kentucky PTA Cover Sheet for Resolutions found in Part I – Forms, in this book.
3. Send your resolution, the cover sheet, and all the supporting documents to the Kentucky PTA by the April 15th deadline.
4. Plan to attend the Kentucky PTA Convention to speak to your resolution.

If you want your resolution, if it is approved by the state convention delegates, to also be submitted to the National PTA, make that your final resolved-action-clause.

Your Issues Your Resolutions

Whereas and Resolve DO Make a Difference

This is the best time of year to begin thinking about resolutions. Resolutions? Yes resolutions. Think you can’t make a difference? Think again. Think you might not have an important suggestion or position? Think again. Many local PTA/PTSA and district PTA resolutions such as AIDS Education, Advertising Alcoholic Beverages, Advertising on Smokeless Tobacco, Safety Seats for Children, Bus Safety- just to name a few-have helped in legislative causes. Remember that a resolution is just a motion that, because of its length, is introduced in a formal written form.

Resolutions can be on safety, health, environmental issues, support for public education, legislative issues that support causes for children and any other issues that fall under the guidelines of the PTA Purposes. The list of subjects is endless and the simplest resolution can make a difference, as the example below shows.

Example: A few years ago, a district PTA from Eastern Kentucky sponsored a resolution addressing the issue of the definition of “parent” that was used to determine who can vote in school-based decision making parent member elections. At that time, the state Attorney General had just rendered an opinion that limited “parent” to only legal guardians.

PTA members from 9th district wrote the resolution, took it to their district conference-where it passed-then submitted it to the delegates at the state PTA convention-where it also passed. That was the beginning of the change in the law. The definition of parent is now “a parent, stepparent or foster parent or a person who has legal custody with whom the child lives.” And it all began with a simple, one page document that began with “Whereas” and ended with “Be It Resolved”.

Reminder: Resolution must be submitted.

Resolutions that are approved by delegates at Kentucky PTA conventions are what guide the Kentucky PTA on which issues to support and which to oppose during sessions of the Kentucky General Assembly. Resolutions approved by delegates at National PTA conventions are what guide the National PTA on which issues to support and which to oppose at the federal government level.

How do we know if our issue is important enough?

Look at the resolutions on this page and the preceding three pages and at the Kentucky PTA Legislative Platform; look at the issues in the National PTA Quick-Reference Guides. This gives a good overview of what subjects are considered important enough-anything and everything concerned with the education, health, safety and welfare of children and youth.

We have an issue to bring to the Kentucky PTA convention, what do we do?

Follow the instructions on the next page and study the section of the National PTA Quick-Reference Guides. The form for submitting resolutions is in Part I – Forms, of the Kentucky PTA Leaders’ Notebook for PTAs and PTSAs.

Contact the Kentucky PTA
for assistance well in advance of the April 15th deadline.

Your PTA can make a difference, think about it!

Your resolution could be just the right one to make an important change. Let us hear from you soon!

Reminder: Resolutions must be submitted by April 15th of each year

Kentucky PTA Position Statement

From the 1999 Kentucky PTA Convention: Reaffirmed at the 2002 Kentucky PTA Convention. Statement on School Counselors

That the Kentucky PTA put particular emphasis on the section of the Kentucky PTA Legislative Platform that calls for adequate funding for counselors at all levels and that the Kentucky PTA make this a priority at the Kentucky General Assembly's next legislative Session.

Kentucky PTA Resolutions

The following are Kentucky PTA Resolutions “still in force,” from resolutions adopted by delegates at Kentucky PTA conventions since 1983. “Still in force” means the resolution has not been rescinded by later convention delegates and the issue has not been adequately solved.

1983 RESOLUTION

Resolution on Asbestos in Schools

Resolved, That the PTA take a leading role to make the public aware of this health hazard through programs;

Resolved, That the PTA encourage and promote the removal of hazardous asbestos found in the schools by working for the necessary legislation to make this become a reality;

Resolved, That PTAs work in conjunction with and support of the school officials to implore them to take immediate action to remove such hazards from our school systems thereby placing our children and youth in schools of an “asbestos-free” environment and therefore free from an imminent health hazard.

1985 RESOLUTIONS

Resolution on School Leadership

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers support programs that will promote effective local school education and administrative leadership.

Resolution on Air Conditioning [Revised-1990]

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA encourage and support the funding of proper heating and air conditioning by the Kentucky Legislature.

Resolution on Drop-Out Prevention

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers will actively work with parents and schools to promote drop-out awareness and prevention programs;

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers will strongly support the funding, implementation and enforcement of statewide drop-out prevention and incentive programs that encourage students to stay in school until age 18 or until graduation.

Resolution on Media Violence

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers supports and encourages local units to make parents and/or guardians aware of the influence on children and youth, when permitted to view motion pictures, TV programs and listen to records and tapes and read literature that produces violence, and sexual exploitation;

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA assist local units with proper ways to establish contact with those parents, companies or organizations that produce and/or sponsor this violence, drug abuse and sexual exploitation.

Resolution on Call Back Programs

Resolved, That Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers support a call-back program that can be utilized by all schools;

Resolved, That Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers encourage all schools to participate in the call-back program and the sign-out identification procedure.

1986 RESOLUTIONResolution on School Bus Safety [Revised-1990]

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA encourage the enforcement of State Board of Education School Bus Safety Regulations;

Resolved, That all local school PTAs, councils and districts be encouraged to monitor school buses and report any evidence of overcrowding to the proper local authorities;

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA and its local PTAs work to enact legislation to mandate school bus safety by compliance with individual school bus seating capacity quotas to reduce overcrowding;

Resolved, That if the overcrowding is not remedied within a reasonable time that the proper state authorities be notified.

1987 RESOLUTIONSResolution for Gifted Children

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA support and now actively promote Minimum Foundation Program funding for gifted education, and cooperate with other organizations with similar objectives to achieve this goal.

Resolution on School Facilities Construction Commission

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA support higher, continued funding for the School Facilities Construction Commission and the Capital Outlay Program.

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA encourage all local units, districts, councils and related education organizations to influence their legislators to support continuation of, and increased funds for, the School Facilities Construction Commission and Capital Outlay Program.

1989 RESOLUTIONResolution on School Bus Safety

Resolved, That the Board of Education and local officials of all levels be encouraged to enforce the existing regulations and laws;

Resolved, That all PTAs be encouraged to help and assist their local school districts in the enforcement of these regulations and in the training of bus drivers and students in safety procedures and regulations;

Resolved, That the Kentucky PTA Board of Directors urge the districts, councils and local units to develop programs that will educate their members and communities on school bus safety procedures.

1990 RESOLUTIONSResolution on Art Education

Resolved, That Kentucky PTAs support and strive for improved art education programs; and be it further

Resolved, That Kentucky PTAs encourage parents, teachers and school administrators to integrate quality arts education programs into the curriculum of Kentucky schools; and be it further

Resolved, That hereafter, Kentucky PTAs welcome the opportunity to work in coordination with the Kentucky Department of Education and other state cultural art resource organizations to create an increased public awareness of participation in the arts.

Commercials in the Classroom

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers oppose requiring that students watch television commercials as part of their daily classroom activity;

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers shall cooperate with education related organizations and groups in opposing such programs and/or proposals;

Resolved, That the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers supports technological improvements to enhance non-commercial opportunities in the classrooms.

1991 RESOLUTIONS

Resolution on the Exceptional Child

Resolved, That all levels of Kentucky PTA – local, district and state – reaffirm its commitment to all children by integrating exceptional children in PTA programs, activities and pictures of children.
